TURNING THE ODDS

"The things which happened unto me have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the Gospel"—Phil. 1:12.

me have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the Gospel"—Phil. 1:12.

SMALL shopkeeper in the north of London found himselt in great straits. The premises which he rented were in shocking need of repair, and he had not the wherewithal to do what the landlord ought to have done. Things seemed to reach rock bottom of hopelessness when the doorstep, over which the customers had to pass, crumbled away and became an eyesper. Many a man would have been more than satisfied if he could have neutralized such heavy odds against him. But this man was made of sterner stuff. The odds against him must be turned to odds in his favor. Accordingly, he had flaming placards set in front of his premises: "This is the only shop in the neighborhood with a worn doorstep." The public took the hint that if the traffic of customers had been such as to wear out the doorstep, the goods in the shop must be worth having. The crumbling doorstep was a very godsend, it was one of the fleest advertisements in the city. That man made capital out of what seemed hopeless disaster.

Sometimes seeming disasters which threaten to disrupt our plans are used by God to the furtherance of His cause. Disaster has a very helpful ministry to perform in our lives.

A PRAYER FOR THE BLIND

A ronto, and who has been without the blessing of sight for twenty-five years, has sent us a prayer which is the cry of her heart. It is as follows:

"O Thon Wonderful Christ, draw me near to Thy sacred heart, Teach me how to pray aright, and help me so to live that I may love, serve and obey Thee out of a pure heart, a would live to die, and die to live through the power of Jesus my Lord. I thank Thee for the sight of my soul, though my physical eyes see not. Grant, I pray Thee, such spirit of all my fellows who live in blindness. In Thine own adorable Name I ask,—Amen, —Mary O'Donnell.

IT TAKES COURAGE

T TAKES more counge to speak to a man face to face and tell him what ought to be cold him, than to shoot at him from the pulpit or platfrom.

It takes more convoce to speak face to face with a brother about what you consider his shortcomings or his perils, than h does to use the pen of the press to show at him from the cover of a bit of japper.

It takes more courage to be honest It takes more courage to be houses oull modestly frank, than it does to smile and pretend friendship when, behind another's back, you listen to others attack him and, by your silence, condume the things said.

It takes more courage to admit a blunder, than it does to bluf your way over it without confession. It takes more courage to walk alone and be right, than it does to go with the crowd and be wrong.

OLINESS IN LIFE, on the lips, and in one's thought is the main thing. There may be a host of consequent and incidental things which belong to Holiness, but the essential, the fundamental thing in Holiness is Holiness.

The term "side track" has become a bit odious to many, for it has carried a derisive thrust to whatever we do not think is vital, and to which the other fellow holds so tenaciously. For the present let us use the term to include not only the useless things that often are hitched on to Holiness or, to be true to the figure, that have a path parallel to Holiness, but also the more or less certain corollaries of Holiness. Now then, the trouble about the side track issue is that so often, the main who champions the idea comes to believe that the side track is the main limit champions the idea comes to believe that the side track is the main limit of the main who champions the idea comes to believe that the side track is the main limit of back and forth on a half mile side track, and they make so much noise and so dominate the ear and eye of the onlooker, either to his delight or disgust, that he lorgers to hoard the main-line through-train for Heaven. There are certain stratas of humans who are more appealed to by the buyen, noisy, side track shinter than by the schedule-keeping, heavy, limited train which avoids the side track.

That person, that movement, that meeting, which holds to the main The term "side track" has become a bit odious to many.

train which avoids the side track.

That person, that movement, that nteeting, which holds to the main line issues of a Blood Atonement, a conscious regeneration by faith in Christ Jesus, a Pentecostal Sanctification, a world-wide program of holy and evangelistic service, a sure destiny contingent on character, may disappoint the active and earnest lindy that keeps on the side track, but will keep all secondary things in their proper place and will not discount the corollaries of the central and primal ideas.

THE MAN ON THE ASH PILE

"Dost thou still retain thine

"And he sat down among the ashes. Then said his wife unto him, Dost thou still retain thine integrity? curse God, and die"—Job 2:8-9.

OB WAS NOT the first nor last man to sit "down among the ashes." Perhaps this grand old Jashes. Perhaps this grain old man of patience had some excuse for so doing, and had you or I been in his position, we, no doubt, would have pursued the same course. It seemed that all the worth-while things in Job's life turned to ashes. The Sabeaus fell upon his oxen, stole them, and also slew the keep-

The next affliction touched lob's person. It was a matter of boils and pustular sores from the sole of his feet to the erown of his head. A sad, repulsive sight

But mark Job's spirit. "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord"—that is the heroic way to Job sin with his lips"—that is the Christly way to go through testing times. is n phrase of thanksgiving and assurance that is often room the lips of the praying believer. No one can reflect upon the pulls over which God has led him without pon the lips of the praying believer. No one can reflect upon the puths over which God has led him without thankfulness for the numberless occasions when God hus halted him or sent him forward or turned him this way or that,—hitherto. But often in the very moment when one gives expression to gratefulness and joy over what God has done, there may steal upon the consciousness a little inch of doubt as to just what God will do nereafter. Hitherto, yes. The retrospect shows that this is so. But what of the days into which we cannot see? Do we let "hitherto" limit our confidence in our Heavenly Futher? Do we wonder whether now that He has led us thus far His hand will be withdrawn? Mat, of us night not wish to confess the presence of even the slightest shadow on our confidence as to His future leading. But sometimes that shadow is there and when it is, one's vision of God's will is bound to be clouded. A man who was deeply concerned over the probable loss of his business position, and in dark doubt as to his future income, freely epoke to a friend of his distress. "Well," said his friend. "Isan't God led you thus far? "Yes," said the other, "but—" "It may be," said the other, "but—" "It may be," said the other, "but—" "It may be," said his adviser, "that the difficulty now is in that doubt hat you have. Cheese you trust Him how can He lead you further?" Even better than to admit that God has led us in the days to come.

THE CARRIER WAVE By STAFF-CAPTAIN MERRITT.

Canada West.

Canada West.

WESTOOD and looked at the little instrument whilst the operator slowly twisted the dlals round and round and tuned-in to the favoff transmitting station. Presently a shrill whistle sounded, and I asked, "What is that?" "Oh," he replied, "that is the sound of the carrier wave. You see, Staff-Captaln the sound waves impress themselves on this wonderful wave of ether, which moves as fast as light travels, and bears the hugress to us here. This is again transposed back to sound and we hear it through this little instrument." "That's very interesting," I replied, "Yes," he continued, "and the strange part of it all is, that we hear the sound even quicker than people would who are standing a short distance away from the speaker or singer." The carrier wave brings it to us as quick as lightning, and where the human volce could only travel a hundred yards or so without its aid, with its aid it will carry the voice hundreds, nay, even thousands of milles."

I walked away thinking about it.

yards or so without its aid, with its aid it will earry the voice hindreds, nay, even thousands of miles."

I walked away thinking about it all. That little instrument had something to tell me even beyond its wonderful power of speech—it spoke of the Carrier Wave of God.

How human we all are, and how we try to make our voice heard above the din of the market-place, above the shouts of the gay throng of pleasure seckers, far out to the sonls who are distant from God. I say, "try," for I think we do try, struggle, agonise, travail even as did our Lord, yet, how few hear the message; how few listen; how few obey! Thank God, there are some who are near to us and they hear and heed and are led into the light of truth. But what about those who are distant from God and our pleadings and tears, and who do not hear? Remember, it is to them we have been sent. Their cries and grouns and tears called The Salvation Army into being. It is to win them from sin, death and hell, that inspires all our activities. To them who are afar from God, lost, helpless, Christlees, And then the little instrument spoke a lesson to me. "Of foolish man, let the Carrier Wave carry the message, the Carrier Wave carry the message, the Carrier Wave of the Huly Spirit. He will reach hearts that are a long way off. Work with Him; then your message will reach those whom you want to reach bend hitherto deaf to all ayour messages."

"Work with Him," did it say? "Yes, and more let Him work through been hitherto deaf to all your messages."

"Work with Him," did it say? "Yes, and more let Him work through yon." Have not all we workers proved this? How often we have fought in vain, struggled to bring souls into the light, and—failed. Cannot we, having done our part, rely absolutely on the Spirit's operation to carry the message to those who are afar off, for, when He speaks. His Voice will raise the dead, yes, even the dead to life.

OUR SUFFICIENCY

"Our sufficiency is of God"-2 Cor.

"Our sufficiency is of God"—2 Cor. 3:5.

In the well-known saying of Augustine: "Give what Thou commanders, and then command what Thou will," we have the pith of the Gospel for the believer seeking Holiness, If we would receive God's commands, without being brought in to legal bandage, we must know God's gift, without limiting it in its offlency. God's requirement of us should not be contemplated apart from God's provision for us. It is us we see that "our sufficiency is of God" that we find "His commandments are not grievous." It is true that all we need He supplies. When we fall it is not because the provision has been insufficient or mavailable—but because the channel has become obstructed; the avenues of the soul closed.

and warning of a resurrected, living, loving Savionr.

We enter the gates that lead to our eternal destiny while we are down here on earth, not at the Great Judgment. During our lifetime we travel one of two roads. Death is the end of the road and from thence we go to the place to which that road has brought us.

sign posts on the way and goes in the opposite direction, whose fault is it that he alever reaches the desired destination? God has sign posts along the journey of life. God's own people, who should be definite sign posts, are often very much faded, broken, and of little use. However, God does not leave it entirely to these, but His own Spirit, through the voice of conscience, is constantly saying. "This is the way, walk ye in it."

Now who have not entered the strait gate by repentance and falth are on the broad way. You can easily distinguish it from the narrow path do says "Wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in therent." That is the way of pleasure, so fifshness and euse; everyone thereon lives for himself. Is that the road on which you are traveling? If so, you know where it leads. At the finish can you justly say God sent you where you deliberately chose to go? Perhaps you reply, "He created us. He placed us here. Why does He not prevent us from going to Hell?" We answer, because He respects our free-will agency. Man must go to fleaven or Hell af his own choice food will not compel a choice one way or the other. God created man with the privilege of choice in order to make man His scrowning work of creation, but this privilege was abused. Man chose to do evil, so it was necessary for God, the Creator, in the person of Jesus Christ, to die for the creature's sin in order to satisy divine justice.

Here is the way back to God, the

Here is the way back to God, the way Christ went, the simple way, the perfect way, the only way. How can we criticize the plan of Salvation? Could anything be more just, more grand, more plain than to follow Christ back to God?

Dear reader, remember that wherever you are on the broad way, whenever a desire springs up in your learn to have that read, a door called "Opportunity" will be opened to you leading to the nurrow way. You have messed many of these doors, Vou do not know how many more there are before the inventor is ended. Who betide if, when you come to the last door, you pass it by,

Duily, hourly, God points to the strait gate entering into the narrow way, saying, "This is the way, walk ye in it." If a traveler desiring to reach a certain city disregards all the

Are You Up-to-Date?

By LIEUTENANT F. EVENDEN, Mount Forest Corps

By LIEUTENANT F. EVEL ON THE old-style Ford car the power for the headlights is transmitted from the magneto. The power produced varies in accordance to the rate at which the engine runs, and, therefore, when the car slows down the lights go dim and are of very little use in lighting up the way whead. This usually occurs at times when you most need the light; e.g., on winding, narrow roads or rough and dangerous sections, often cansing the driver much anxiety and endangering the lives of the occupants of the car. In up-to-dute cars the headlights receive their power from storage batteries, which, if kept charged, give a steady, strong light, regardless of the speed at which the car may travel. Therefore, the rough, dangerons or winding roads cause the driver very little anxiety as he can see the road clemby.

The experience of the driver of the old-tyle car can be likened to the man whose spiritual experience is not up-to-dute, one who is not living close to God and reading and obeying His Word. Consequently, when the path becomes rough and thorny, and temptations heset on every hand, they cannot see the way out. How to overcome they know not, and very often they become discouraged, lose the way, and suffer defeat.

The person with an np-to-date experience, who is living close to God and following the promutings of His Shirit each moment, has no difficulty at such inness, because he is quickly enlightened by the Shirit and shown how to find the way out safely. Have you are up-to-date experience? Or, are you one of those who are satisfied with an old experience which has lost its hrighmess and has no power to enlighten your way? We cannot all have an up-to-date car, but we can have an up-to-date car, but we can have an up-to-date car, but we can have an up-to-date car, but on the Heavenly Road.

We need never be afraid of glaring headlights or of annoying our follow-travelers by shedding too bright a light on the Heavenly Road, as all traffe is going in the same direction. Therefore, our bright light or experience may heln someone ahead of us or beside us to see the path more clearly and, perhaps, interpret Master.

There is no room to turn around on this road. Those who become dissuisfied soon find themselves on a side truck which leads them quickly to the Broad Road, where destruction soon overtakes them unless they repent and seek the Narrow Road once more and follow it faithfully.

Is your experience up-to-dute?

C LEAR AS CRYSTAL along the Embankment there swept the shrill importunance of a trumpet call and, from somewhere in the distance down the noble boulevard, another trumpeter gave tongue, taking up the challenge, it was the "Fall in!" Then the International Staff Band struck up a martial air, a policeman nodded, the great procession moved along.

"What's it all about?" inquired one of the crowd

"What's it all about?" inquired one of the crowd of spectators.
"Can't you see?" returned his friend..."The Salvation Army... going to Hyde Park."
The procession filed past, banners held aloft by men with straining muscles, "floats" decorated to represent various phases of Army work; more Bands and, over all, the familiar Tricolor. Still they came with militant step; an Army in every sense of the word—an Army on the march!
Regent Street, Oxford Street; through the very hear of the business world, the long line of joyful warriors yended their way and everywhere people were expressing their admiration.

Terrifically Happy

A boot-black asked, "Wot's all this, guv-nor? Who're yer a-buryin' of?"
"Burying? Why, we're raising people to life

"Well, 'ow's a feller ter know? Yer allus seems thiffely appy!"

Terrifically happy! Yes, that was the keynote of the whole. The Bandsmen, the Land-boys, the Life-boatmen, the Colonists, the Officers—all were, and looked, terrifically happy. Even the "convict" (in one of the tableaux) could not act the necessary unhappiness proper to his "part"; even he smiled, and the heart of London took the cue. "Honest-to-goodness every time." So wherever the procession went it left a trail of smiling faces—the faces of men and women who saw, however unhappy they might be themselves, the true joy of the Salvationists, who knew it for what it was; a Terrific and a Lasting Joy!

On and up and past the happily saluting General—well supported at the review point by Mrs. Booth, the British Commissioner, and others, just inside the gates near the Marble Arch—who was as generous as his Soldiers in returning their Joyful greetings.

Hard on the heels of the International Training Council Delegates—an impressive group of responsible Officers—came the Trade Headquarters contingent, with a brave "War Cry" banner in the midst announcing: "Circulation, 1,734.652, printed in twenty-eight languages." Women's Social Officers, and Mothers' Hospital Nurses, with a doll on the scales saluting the General, who clapped his hands at the "weighty' salutation, were followed by the highly in pressive display made by the Training Garrison Staff and Cadets. THE WAR CRY

"There is hope! Look up!" And glory crowns our Army Flag—the glory of God. For it sweeps to victory for no other end but the Glory of God! When the beautiful international tableaux rolled past, we saw a gentleman from the United States take off his hat to the "Sure thing Japunese lady" as she passed smiling and bowing to the General. Under The Army banner the conflict of national differences falls into the background! While all this was going on the central route, wonderful street scenes were being witnessed at four points of the compass, From all directions of the great city came contingents of Salvationists with hanners and Bands. And it was on this happy Salvation note that the March Past, in which over 7,000 Comrades had participated, concluded.

With The Army, the penitent-form complements the pageant — even in London's prendier park! So it was, that immediately the last salute had been given and smilingly taken, the General stepped down from the "base" and accompanied by Mrs. Booth, and others, was conducted through an avenue of most friendly crowds to what was designated Platform No. 1, from which picturesque vantage point his voice was, within a

Would all mankind embrace!" declared the singing Salvationists, and here was a manythousand portion held under the spell of those outstretched "arms of Love"!

"A remarkable sight and full of significance for the future," the General described this great Blood-and-Fre assemblage in Hyde Park. The rise of The Salvation Army appeared to him to be one of the most striking facts of the 19th century, and its spread and progress not less a fact of the twenieth. It was not often that he came to liyde Park, was his humorous comment, but when he did he was always proud that The Army was making itself known the world over and that what was said of an even more important thing was true of it—"This thing was not done in a corner." And he results everywhere were gladdening, for its proclamation brought hope to the hopeless, joy to the joyless, and liberty to the bond-slaves of sin!

Circling the fine pleasure-ground with his hand, the General assorted that there were at that moment thousands of men and women in that park who bore testimony that Jesus Christ is the Great Emaneipator!

or two!"

The beloved Leader waxed exceeding tender as he appealed, first to his equally beloved people to be up and doing in the vital fight for soils, and then to the unsaved among the throng: "Here is a day, an hour, a place when and where you can make your peace with God..."

For the next quarter of an hour or so the Christless world, with its darkness and woe, was in possession of the General's platform. The farstretching concourse who enjoy all the privileges of Britain's noble capital were hushed and impressed as India, Japan, and South Africa litten to inconsequently, either—was reinforced by a flammersmith testimony — a c ckney gambler saved in his shirt-sleeves and characteristically and with tremendous emphasis repending the thrust: "Some of you will stand over there to night" (pointing to the Marble Arch) "and hear them telling you one 'ism' alter another. What I say to you is, get Salvation from sin, for that is the only kind of 'ism' worth having!"

"Many Happy Returns!"

"Many Happy Returns!"

At the No. 2 platform Mrs. Booth was present and spoke, declaring that all goodness came from God, but that He was prepared to change the heart and life of a man enabling him to conform to the righteons will of God. It was for her a particularly happy day. Mrs. Booth added, for it was her birthday. The crowd clapped and shouted at this announcement, many crying about. "Many happy returns of the day!" But her greatest joy was to he able to look back upon the day which sche called her spiritual hirthday.

At 4.30 the meeting proper was opened, when a number of International Training Staff Council Delegates arrived. India, the U.S.A. Newfondland, and Canada were represented among the speakers, and a well-fought prayer-battle saw thirteen seeking forgiveness.

land, and Canada were represented among the speakers, and a well-faught prayer-battle saw thirteen seeking forgiveness.

Enger crowds and admiring cyes watched The Army Leader's departure. Whilst of necessity he was soon lost to sight, and the pack mickly resumed its normal appearance with the dispersal of the Salvationists, the sure-shot words of his own big soon, and those of the many speakers at the four stands, will long remain.

London's Day Out was a great day—a day of great glory to God!

LIEUTENANT PEARL MARCH

This Comrade had an anspicious start in life, for she was dedicated to God under The Army Colors. The influence of Christian parents curhed unmy a rebellious tendency in her life, and kept her feel on the path which leads to God. In tender years she became a Junior Soldier, and attended the Company Meetings at Hamilton I. Corps. Later she entered the ranker of the Seniors. As the Lieutemant Journeys across the Paelife toward the Land of the Dragon, the sweet memories of fellowship with the Hamilton Comrades will afford her many a blessed hour of meditation.

with the enthusiasm and ardor of youth. She has taken with her a text which will prove a sheet anchor in the storms she is bound to meet. It is this: "I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whither thou goest."—Genesis 28:15.

CAPTAIN AGNES WILLERTON

Captain Agnes Willerton is the first Officer to leave the Bloor Street Women's Hospital, Toronto, for missionary service. She was born in Hull, Yorkshire, of Salvationist parents, and gave her heart to God in a meeting at the Hull 1. Corps when she was fourteen years of age. Coming to Canada her Tamily settled in Belleville, Ont., where the Captain became a Corps Cadet and later held several Local Officer's commissions.
Step by step she was led by the Lord until, in 1921, she entered the Training Garrison. That missionary service was the foremost thought in her mind is evidenced by the fact that she specifically applied for Social Work in order that she might have the henefit of some medical training which would better equip her for service in a foreign land. Previous to her entering the Women's Hospital, however, the Captain rendered splendid service on the Field, her appointments heing at Rhodes Ave., Tweed, Gananoque and Cornwall. She was then appointed to the Hospital, from which she graduated in 1924.

Now has come to pass her life-long desire to be a missionary, and she rejoices in the fact that her Leaders have seen fit to accede to her desire. She feels honored, too. because God has called her to labor amongst the people on India's coral strand.

CAPTAIN MARY SMITH

That it was the will of God for Mary Smith to become a Salvation Army Officer there is not the slightest nount, for since her carliest childhood, although reared in a Roman Catholic home where the Bible was an unopened Book, she has, by the goodness of God, been fitted for her present position.

goodness of God, been fitted for her present position.

It was in Dalkeith, Scotland, that she experienced her first touch with The Army. She, with several others, often managed to annoy the Officer and cause disturbances in the meeting. However, the Officer returned good for avil. for when, sametime later, the ulschlef-maker was very fil, The Army Captain was the lirst to visit her. Also, upon arrival in Can-ada, one of our Officers was the first person who showed kindness to her person who showed kindness to her family.

Upon taking employment in the home of some Methodist people, the mistress invited her to family prayers. At first, however, she refused to attend, owing to the differences in their faith. But the Spirit of God gradually worked upon her heart until she became interested in reading the Bible, and one night she found her way to The Army Hall and knelt at the foot of the Cross. Just why it should be The Army she could not then understand, for the Organization had not created within her he least spark of interest. But "God moves in a mysterious way, His wonders to perform."

Naturally enough her association with The Army met with strong opposition in her home, which she ultimately left, settling in Toronto. She became a Soldier of the Yorkville Corps, from where she entered the Training Garrison. It was while in the Garrison that she offered herself or freign service.

He called attention to the immense importance of obtaining cheap power. That, he said, was the real question when considering the future of the mines. What was the use of scouring the world lor markets for our raw coal, or of spending our national wealth in dragging oil fuel from the ends of the earth for our transport, instead of transforming our colossal mineral wealth into power at its sources? We must begin at the colliery. The coal owners and miners should present a scheme to the Government for setting up a plant for low-temperature carbonization. The waste gases should be utilized, the oil He called attention to the imperature carbonization. The waste gases should be utilized, the oil and other available by-products should be generated. Undoubtedly, large credits would be necessary, but thus, and thus only, could the motive power of our industries be revolutionized. THE PARTY OF THE P MAKERS OF ARMY-MAKERS

THE GENERAL AND MRS. BOOTH

Receive the Delegates to the International Training Councils at Clapton--Unique and Memorable Gathering

ET ONCE again we have the privilege to chronicle a unique happenning within Army circles—the concentration, in London, of representatives of the forty Training Garisons which The Army has established throughout the world, for Comeil under the command of the General. The number of new Officers sent footh each year from these Training tentres which girdle the globe, under The Army Flag, rapidly approaches the two thousand mark, and the Officers askenbled for this International Training Staff Council, in most cases the Principals of the various Garrisons, are thus recognized as being responsible Officers indeed, for they have in their hands, as the General JET ONCE again we have the prisponsible Officers inneed, for they have in their hands, as the General has already remarked regarding them the key of the situation as it exists to-day and, nucreover, they may sway to-day and, mureover, they may sway the future to a far more powerful extent than any one-may imagine.

Additional interest will be seen to centre in this occasion when it is remembered that, though The Army's Training system was imagurated as frauning system was mangurated as an experiment forty-free years ago, this is the first such Council of Train-ing Staff Officers to be called by the General, It is a sign of the steady de-velopment which this branch of Army velopment which this branch of Apiny activity is making; it is a portent of the greater progress which is about to set in; it is a token of the General's desire that the utmost possible should be done to perfect and to unify Training operations in every land.

Keen Delegates

Meeting in such favorable circum-tances, the Delegates who gathered for the reception at the historic oid Congress Hall, Clapton, were obviously keen to avail themselves of the opportunity thus presented for fratternizing with contrades who had, in many cases, been to them only nomes appearing in Army publications heretofore. But with what mingled feelings some of them assembled in the grounds of the Garrison in which they had been Cadets in days of long ago!

In these days, when the Men's social Work directorship is changing hands, one finds a good deal of stock-taking going on in that Department, and it is not surprising to find that a "War Cry" representative has taken the opportunity of getting an indicalled as pulmer look, through the eyes of the rettring Colonel Otway, at this important branch of Army enterprise, which aims at the social, moral and spiritual inplifting of men.

social, moral and spiritual aphitting of men.

Let it be recorded as a tribate to his never-tiring labor, that the Colonel has vacated the position of Territorial Social Secretary with much logive that cause for satisfaction. He can look back along the five years of Men's Social busy-ness with the chated eye of one who has with Divine help accomplished things—and great things! The year just closed will rank among the best of them the proposed and to-day finds them hetter equipped than ever for dealing with the many social problems with which this Department is constantly faced.

Already hundreds of prisoners have been enrolled and a number who have completed their sentences have heen sworn-in as Saldiers. At Burwash, there are sixty members out of four lundred prisoners, and twenty have been saved and enrolled as Salvationists.

"A great deal could be said about the Parole system," continued the Colonel, "in which The Salvation Army again co-operates with the Government—a high tribute to the value set upon the efficiency of our Organization. The greater part of the value set upon the efficiency of our Organization. The greater part of the value set upon the efficiency of our Organization. The Army is, of course, mushle to assist all such eases, but so far as is possible, we seek out especially needly cases to which is sent a basket of provisions costing approximately $3.50. Last year 558 such baskets of food were given and $631 distributed in helping to pay rent. A case was reported to us of a man who was serving a three-year term in Kingston. He had a wife and two children. During a period of depression he got linked up with some men who stole an auto and was apprehended with them. Our Officer found the shack in which they lived badly needing repair, there was bardly any farniture and the woman was sleeping on the floor. Our Officers had the shack repaired, papered it 4 and we continued to support the family of eighteen mouths, when we succeeded in gelling the num released; he is now holing well.

Questioned concerning the Police Court Work, the Colonel remarked. "The Army Officer in the Police Court has now become a well-known institution. In almost all eases they are welcomed by the Margistrates and Court has now become a well-known institution, in almost all cases they are welcomed by the Margistrates and recognized as valued ablesdeceming. The records show that over 7,000 in terviews were made hast year, 505 cases handed over to The Army, and 305 cases remanded to our care. "A typical case is that at a French-Canadian had from a Northern On-inrio lown, who stole $15,00 from his father and set out to see the world. He later arrived without money and friends in Hamilton, where the police picked him up a sleep in an alley.

"When he appeared in Court next day his prospects of reunining at therty seemed slight. Staff-Capitain & Ritchie offered to take the lad to The Army Citaded and the Margistrate placed him in his charge. After a talk with the boy, the Staft-Capitain telegraphed the father, asking if he would allow the lad to come home. A reply was received that the father would, and money for his fare was forwarded. The how was sent home and a fatter reached the Staff-Captain later thanking him for his efforts, and adding that the how was thoroughly pentient after his prank, and was attending school regularly.

When the "Cry" representative finally asked whether the Department did much in the way of investigation work, Colonel Otway threw himself buck and laughed heartily, "You're going up a wide street now. Talk about investigation. We have hundreds and andreds of applications in his Department yearly, and have had some delightful successes. Here is a typical case:

In accomplishing its work of Social betterment, The Army ever reties upon the power of Divine grace, in fact, its social activities are only unctioning as a necessary adjunct to what may be called its purely spiritual operations. A serinon is poor tood for a man with an empty barder. Satisfy his hunger cravings and he will give ear to your reminder of his soil requirements. A man who's been knocked over in the busy thoroughfares of life decent want to be preached to about his carelessness while he lies in danger in the roadway. He must be helped to his feet again—and quickly.

Spiritual Reclamation

Spiritual Reclamation

Spiritual Reclamation

That this Social aid is an effective step to spiritual reclamation receives witness in the following story.

When the opportunity was given for testimony in a Saltwitton meeting held at the Temple, Toronto, a man rose and said: "Priends, two months ago in Langstaff Jail I sought and found the Saviour. I have been a great sinner, living without thought of flod or religion—in fact. I thought all Christian people were crazy—bill while in jaid and attending the Salvation Army meetings my life has been changed and I intend to make good."

This man was released on parole and was provided with work at the Industrial Department, while a permanent position was secured for him, in which he is now making good. Thus will the Men's Social Department, under he is now making good. Thus will the Men's Social Department, under he new Territorial Secretary, Colonet William Moreheu, continue with the Christilke work of secking to rebuild men and make them fit to live and ready to die.

The Colonel drew special attention to that recent innovation, the Brighter Day League, the prison members of which give a promise to lead a better life, to abstain from intoxicating timer, to rend a Bible partian and to pray for Divine help. MAGNIFICENT CROWDS-HALLOWED MEETINGS-SIXTY SEEKERS

THE SERIES OF MEETINGS, held in Saint John, by Commissioner Sowton for the Officers and Soldiers of the Maritime Provinces who are unable to visit the Toronto Congress, will rank among the best ever held in this city, writes Adjutant J. T. Wright.

The Commissioner and Colonel Adby were warmly welcomed by Major Burton, the Divisional Commander, at an Officers Council held in the Saint John I. Citadel on Thursday afternoon. Local Officers were invited to attend the evening session, and as an evidence of their app-eciation of that privilege a goodly number responded. The meeting was of a very enthusiastic character, and cannot fail to benefit the various Corps represented.

enthusiastic character, and caunot fail to benefit the various Corps represented.

We eagerly looked forward to the Councils for Officers on the day following, and were not disappointed. The Commissioner deal with a number of timely topics, referring to many phases of Salvation Army work in this and other lands, and giving us. in his heart-leart talks, the benefit of his varied and valuable experience. It would be difficult to single out any one Council as more blessed than another, as each one was full of rich blessing for all.

than another, as each one was full of rich blessing for all.

We were further favored for the week-end meetings with the presence of the International Social Secretary, Commissioner D. C. Lamb, and Mrs. Commissioner Lamb. The Saturday night meeting was for Officers, Local Officers and Soldiers, when the attendant crowd nearly filled the No. 1. Citadel. Commissioner Sowton conducted the preliminaries and introduced Commissioner Lamb who was most warmly received. The visitor's pithy, epigrammatic remarks were enjoyed to the inll. Mrs. warmly received. The visitor's pinty, oppgramatic remarks were enjoyed to the full. Mrs. Lamb also spoke, her earnest, arresting appeals falling as seed upon good soil. peals falling as seed upon good soil. The Spirit of the Lord was indeed upon her, and when the invitation was given, twenty-five persons voluntarily surrendered themselves to God. It was a meeting which will long be remembered for its spiritual fervor.

The Sunday morning Holiness meeting was characterized by holy influences throughout. Both Commissioner and Mrs. Lamb sought to impress their listeners with the importance of living so that people should see the likeness of Christ in their every-day life.

The Imperial Theatre had been engaged for the afternoon and night meetings, and a splendid crowd gathered for the lecture by Commissioner almb entitled: "The Empire, Our Theat Tilley, Colonel Murray MacLaren, M.P., Magistrate Henderson, and R. I. Armstrong. He was most enthusiastically received and expressed his pleasure at being present. When introducing Commissioner Lamb the chairman highly commended The Salvation Army's Immigration Policy, stating that, by this means, the congestion of the Old Land might be relieved and the prosperity of this land of ours greatly increased.

Commissioner Lamb, in his lecture, showed a keen grasp of Empire problems. He referred, particularly, to the serious menace created by a million and a quarter unemployed in the Old Land, urging the necessity of prompt action, and suggesting the formation of an Empire Settlement, Commission composed of sound-minded business men as the apparent solution of this great problem, and reminding, in conclusion, that the edifice of true Empireship rests in happy homes.

Following the lecture, Mrs. Lamb spoke in support of her Insbands plea and deeply moved the midience as she described the pittid plight of many strong near for whom no work could be found. The Hon, L. P. D. Tilley, M.L.A., in seconding Mrs. Lamb's vote of thanks to Premier Baxter for his presidency at the meeting, spoke of The Salvation Army's proposal to a "religion of sunshine."

Colonel Murray MacLaren, C.M.G., V.D., M.D., also spoke in appreciation of the lecture, and in commendation of The Army's proposal to foster immigration to the Eastern Provinces.

foster immigration to the Eastern Provinces.

An excellent crowd of expectant people attended the final gathering. Following the opening exercises by Commissioner Sowton, the meeting was addressed in turn by Commissioner and Mrs. Lamb. The presence of the Holy Spirit was again mightily felt throughout, and as we entered into the prayer meeting, which was piloted by Colonel Adby, a steady stream of penitents found their way to the mercy-scat from both the ground floor and the halcony of the Theatre, until upwards of twenty were registered. were registered.

We thank God for splendid crowds, sixty seekers, seasons of great spiritual power, and definite stimulus to our work throughout the East.

The Holiness meeting on Sunday morning, witnessed a continuation of the showers of blessing, and the message provoked much searching of heart. This being Rally Day, a program was arranged in the afternoon in which both the Seniors and Young People took part. The Colonel seized the occasion to emphasize the need of good teachers for the Y.P. Work, and made a plea for reinforcements for this important branch of Army activity.

At night potent infinences prevailed. The Colonel's burning messagerivetted the hearts of the unsaved, while Mrs. Colonel Powley's reading of the Scripture lesson and her effective solning added to the deep impression made. Five souls responded to the invitation in the prayer meeting. The week-end proved full of rich blessing.

RECOLLECTIONS OF THE PAST

RECOLLECTIONS OF THE PAST

THE 1925 CONGRESS is upon us! It seems that the rumblings of last year's Campaign have scarcely had chance to quieten down—and now we are face to face with another. How fleeting is life! Yet how happily is it punctuated with memories that bless. In the table of events which make up The Army's activities in the Territory for a year, the Fall Congress is easily the most spectacular and picturesque single happening. In fact, many Salvationists who live near enough to The Hub to purticipate in these great meetings, almost count their year's from Congress to Congress. At any rate, certain it is that these annual events constitute sweet recollections in the diary of many a Salvationist. They tower above the littles of our lives like Everest above her sister mountains.

Immediately the name of this year's Congress Leader was announced, many Officers and Soldiers turned back reminiscently to the pages of 1911, and recalled the stirring events of that year's Congress which was led by Mrs. Booth. The dust of four-teen years has not obscured the memories of those precious seasons. And now, after a long separation, we stand on the eve of another visitation from Mrs. Booth. May God increase the results of the 1925 Congress over the 1911 event by the multiple of years intervening!

EXPECTATIONS RUN HIGH

Folks are anxious to see Mrs. Booth once again; the Salvationists are not alone in this longing, for hundreds of interested outsiders will also take opportunity to renew an old acquaintanceship. It is only natural that a separation of fourteen years should make the desire for meeting very keen indeed.

Our widely-traveled International Secretary, Commissioner Henry Mapp, and Staff-Captain Dora Booth will also be present to participate in

Of course, most folks who have a leaning towards The Salvation Army around these parts know of Commissioner Mapp. He has more friends and acquaintances in Canada than some people who have dwelt here all their days. So his coming in-have dwelt here all their days. So his coming in-tensifies our expectation.

Staff-Captain Dora is the youngest daughter of General and Mrs. Booth, and has to her credit a number of victorious commands of Corps in the British Field. Torontonians are glad she can be in their midst for this occasion. Already we have made the acquaintance of Lieut.-Colonel Mary and Adjutant Wycliffe, and we now look forward with delight to fellowship with the Staff-Captain.

THINGS CHANGED AND UNCHANGED

THINGS CHANGED AND UNCHANGED

Things have changed since 1911—in Mrs. Booth, in us, in our great Army—and, praise God! for the better. Mrs. Booth comes to us enriched by her sky years' experience and heavy responsibility as British Commissioner. She also comes to us this time with added prestige as the wife of the General. And as to ourselves,—yes, we, too, have altered. With the years have come a more lively appreciation of worth-while things. Perhaps, as listeners, we are a bit more critical and exacting in our demands—but we are quick to discern ability, sincerity, compassion. Then The Army has changed; not in its beliefs—they are Gibraltaic, immovable—but in its size. We are a more numerous people, a more popular people, a more influential people. However, we shall meet on a battle-ground that is unchanged—"The Massey" still stands! We shall call upon the Name of Him who is as unchangeable as the everlasting hills—the Lord Jesus is ever the same. And Mrs. Booth will speak to us of immutable truths—"The Word of the Lord endureth for ever." speak to us of immutable the Lord endureth for ever.

Mrs. Booth and her party arrived in New York on Tuesday, October 6th. Thursday was spent in Toronto, and on the night train the visitors whisked away westward, to fulfil a tightly packed program in Winnipeg, October 9th to 15th being the dates of Canada West's Fall Congress.

LET US START WELL!

The first gun of the Eastern Congress will be fired on Friday night, October 16th at 7 p.m., when our own Commissioner will conduct a Council for Officers at the Temple. "Well begun is half done," is an oft-repeated adage—but works out to be uncannily true. So let every Officer enter the initial neeting of the series with vigorous hope, unbounded expectancy, and, mayhap, this year we shall reap benefits "exceeding abundantly above all that we ack or this " ask or think.'

During Mrs. Booth's sojourn in the Queen City, she will be entertained at Government House by Colonel His Honor Harry Cockshutt, Lieut-Governor of Ontario, and Mrs. to preside on this occasion of Mrs. Booth's lecture, entitled, "The Salvation Army and Problems of To-day," to be delivered in Massey Hall on Congress Sunday afternoon.

TICKETED MEETINGS

Keep in mind that admission to the meetadmission to the meeting on Saturday night, when Mrs. Booth will meet Soldiers and Recruits in Massey Hall, is to be by ticket only.

Persons outside the eity should apply im-mediately (enclos-ing stamped addressed envelope) to the Trade Secretary, who will secure seat tickets as soon as procurable, and either mail them to the applicant, or have them applicant, or have them held at the Trade Department until claimed.

Local Officers intending to be present at the private Council for Officers and Locals on Tuesday night, October 20th, in the Hygeia House, should procure tickets of admission from Corps Officer or Divisional Commander.

Congress visitors will be glad to know that the Trade Department is also offering special facilities for their benefit; parcels will be checked, interesting displays will be on view in the Officer's Rest Room, and attractive prices will be placed on books. THE BUSY "DOERS"

THE BUSY "DOERS"

We have occasionally popped into the Y.P. Department during the past few days and, my word but things do buzz down there. The T.Y.P.S. doesn't look worried—just concerned, and when he offers going to be no mean affair.

His chief assistants, Adjutants Porter and Ellery, have become infected with the same spirit. They are here, there, everywhere—doing this, that, everything. There are Scouts and Guards to be trained, disciplined, and costumed. There are the cost shutt. His Honor is likely the control of that require attention. There are folks are busy doing it.

Four Banks will also participated.

Four Bands will also participate in the Monday night Festipate in the Monday night Festi-val, namely, Dovercourt, Earls-court, West Toronto and River-dule. The men of each combina-tion have been regular and dili-gent in practice, and we may expect some friendly rivalry on the big night.

The Staff Quartette have been tuning up their vocal chords preparatory to singing the latest published vocal production of Adjutant Coles.

Nearly seven thousand people will be able to bear Mrs. Booth on Congress Sunday night. It is certain that Massey Hall will be crammed long before the announced starting time. Those unable to gain admission will be glad to know that the Pantages Theatre has been secured for an overflow meeting, thus allowing more than 3,000 additional people to worship with us. Mrs Booth will give a Salvation address at both gatherings.

The "Women Only" meeting, to be held in the Temple Auditorium on Monday afternoon at 3 p.m., will attract an unusually large crowd. The seating capacity is quite limited, so it would be well to arrive early. Only those eighteen years of age, or over, will be admitted.

Congress visitors who can remain in Toronto until Thursday, October 22nd, will be glad to take place in the Citadel on that date. The Songsters and the Senior and Y.P. Bands will take part, each rendering items which are the compositions of Adjutant Bramwell Coles, who will preside over the Festival.

The great soul-saving battle of the Congress will start at 6.30 p.m. Also an overflow meeting will be held in Pantages Theatre. Mrs. Booth will address both congregations.

The final Massey Hall event will take the form of a Musical Festival and Young People's Demonstration, at 7.45 p.m., Monduy, October 19th. Mrs. Booth will speak at this meeting. During the Congress, "War this meeting."

Mrs. Booth will speak at this meeting.

Among the many visitors from outside points will be numbered Colonel and Mrs. Cloud-all the way from Newfoundland.

In concluding these notes we might mention another Department that is being worked to the limit just now. We refer to the Field Department. How to procure sufficient billets for the visiting delegates—ah, that is the problem of the moment.

COMMON SENSE METHODS IN PRISON ADMINISTRATION

ADMINISTRATION

In This past ten years over twenty prisons have heen closed in England, and the prison nopulation has dropped by about 60 per rent. On the other hand, the ligares for crime reveal only a very slight downward tendency. The closing of prisons does not mean that appreciably fewer offences, taken as a whole, are being committed. It means that a daring experiment is being made of which the fruits cannot be apparent for some years. Great hope is put in the new treatment by which men, women and children who appear before the magistrates are no longer regarded as the raw material of crime. fore the magnistrates are no longer regarded us the raw material of crime, but as fellow-creatures, misgnided or the victims of onvironment or circumstance. Offenders who in the old days would almost certainly have been made into habitual criminals are now being trained in reformatory schools or Borsital institutions to be schools or Borsital institutions to be useful citizens. As one generation folious another it is hoped that fewer and fewe, criminals will appear, and that eventually the few surviving prisons will be occupied only by cases incapable of reform,

Canada had a weird colonge long before the preliminary steps were taken to charter the pioneer banks of this country. Bear skins were logal tender in the first days of the French and it was during that regime that the first Canadian money appeared. The year was 1670. Two special coins of five and fifteen sols denomination were issued for Canada by the French India Company, and a law was passed that they be accepted at an advance of omethiral of their face value. These coins left the country in large quantities to pay for imported goods, and ha short space of fifteen years theye was hardly a coin in circulation in the land.

It was the custom to ray the troops in January, and when 1685 had dawn-ed the Treasurer of the colony was unable to meet that obligation in coin.

Those in authority issued the first paper money in Cauadian history. It was very crudely executed and consisted of outlinary playing curils cut in four. The pieces were stamped with a wax flenr de lis and hore the amount they represented and the signature of the governor. When navigation opened in the spring the paper was redeemed with the comage that arrived from France. This card money was at first a great success and circumstances caused other issues of card money in 1690, 1700 and 1708. In 1717, when another emergency arose, an attempt was made to monid colms, and these were possibly the arose, an attempt was made to nonincolns, and those were possibly the lirst coins to be made on this content. Card money continued to be issued until the capture of Quebec in the attumn of 1759, when the British remunerars redeemed it at a henry discount and shattered the faith in paper money.

After the Seven Years' War, very little British money came in these shores and the Spanish milled dollar, or piece of eight, was a popular coin. They came up to pay for legitimate trade with Nova Scotia and others trade with Nova Scotia and others were brought in by pirate raids and excursions of "Gentlemen of the Sea." Portugueses and French colus were also in circulation, and the various colonies issued paper bills of their own. In 1782, the Canada Bank, a private venture, issued paper money, Those bills did not enjoy a large circulation and are now very rare.

During the war of 1812-15 the unitary officials in Upper and Lower Canada resorted to an Issue of jupur munny, known as Ariny Bills. The paper bills of the early Caudian bunks enjoyed a good receptlor from 1817 flown, although a Canadian bank was not chartered multi 1818. For many years the country was flooded with paper money issued by individual merchants, bridge and coaching companies, rallways and private note-issuing hanks. Even the City of Toronto issued its nwn maney and 1812 Khugston issued paper money. Mrs. Booth's words made a strong appeal to the delegates, for they stressed the fate that faithful preparation of leaders-to-be is among the basic factors of The Army fairly. "I feel," Mrs. Booth said, "that the fact that it is possible to gather from so many countries people who are engaged in the Training Work is such an example of the wonderful progress of The Army in those different countries. Naturally, we looked ferward with a good deal of interest to our visit to Cohourg, Forty-one years is a big slice out of a man's life. Would we meet any of the old Conrades, and how would the lowe look, etc.? These were among the questions that crowd-ed our minds when approaching this buttlefield.

Our promoted Sister was a mative of the Wost Indies, and came in Permuda with her husband, the Rev. E. B. Grant, nearly twenty years ago. She was first attracted to The Army by the plain dress of the Satvationists and also the lambourine. In keoping with her desire she was given an Army Inneral and a large crowd gathered to pay their last tribute of respect to one who had been so fulthful. At the Memorial ofference many spoke of her devoted life and the blessing she had been to them in the Corps, and also of the victation among the sick. FINE TRIBUTES PAID TO NEW DIVISIONAL LEADERS, AND HIGH HOPES ENTERTAINED FOR THE ADVANCE OF THE WAR

M AJOR AND MRS. MACDONALD are now in command of the Montreal Division. They were installed on Friday last, October 2nd, by the Chief Secretary, and right well did he perform the task. Their presentation was in two sections. First, to the Offleers of the Division in the afternoon, and in the evening to a finely representative erowd of Soldiers gathered in the Montreal I. Citadel. Citadel.

The afternoon event was delight-The alternoon event was dengan-fully intimate and helpful in char-acter. In the first place it was en-riched by a most uplifting Bible mes-sage delivered by the Colonel. Then it was widespread in the character of its welcome in that various depart-ments of service were efficiently re-presented. Major Tymlall, the Terri-torial Auditor, invoked God's blessing torial Auditor, invoked God's blessing on the assemblace in general. Major Byers spoke for the Social Work; Mrs. Captain Capson for the Field; Adjumnt Pitcher for the Sobscribers' Department; Staff-Captain Owen for the Division as a whole, and Man of the Pen on behalf of "all the rest," while a visitor from England, Major Donahl Fletcher, also contributed beliafully to the occasion.

Many indeed were the greetings tendered Major and Mrs. Macdonald as they in furn addressed the meeting. They were obviously heariened by the vocalized evidence of confiby the vocalized evidence of confidence in and regard for them which the meeting called forth and pledged themselves to capacity service for God and The Army in their new appointment.

Following supper, served by those splendid veterans, Brother and Sister Fisher, who have figured in not a few similar welcomes, a public gath-ering evoked a further demonstration of welcome. As someone remarked. "It was a case of much loved Officers I'll was a case of much loved Officers returning to an old battleground. Major and Mrs. Macdonald have put in two previous terms of service in the Metropolis; once as single Officers, and later in command of the No. 1. Comps. During those terms of service they thoroughly practised what they preached. So that it was not in any degree surprising that the welcome accorded them by The Salvationists of the city was so manimums and so definitely sincere. The spiendfd musical combinations of the No. 1. Corps were on the platform and added pleasing touches to the meeting by tuncful and well rendered sciections.

As in the afternoon session, the Chief Secretary delivered a particularly api. Bible message.

Referring to Major and Mrs. Mac-donald, the Chief Secretary said in part:-

part:—
"Major and Mrs. Macdonald enjoy the atmost confidence of their leaders, from the General down. All who know anything at all about them, as I suid to the Officers in the meeting this atternoon, know that the honor of The Salvation Army is safe in their hands. They are leaders who can be depended on; they will, we believe, come up to the highest expectations of what a Salvation Army Leader should be."

Called upon by the Chief Secretary to speak as representing Montreal I. Corps, Ensign McBain, amongst other things said:

"When I heard that Major and Mrs. "When I heard that Major and Mrs. Macdonaid were appointed as our new D.C's, my heart went out to them. I welcome them and pledge capacity service. We heartily welcome Major and Mrs. Macdonald because we know nothing but good concerning them."

Sergeant-Major Colley, who spoke n behalf of the Local Officers of the Division, made a very neat speech, which he said:

"I don't know that I ever welcomed Officers with as big a heariful as I do Major and Mrs. Jacdonald. We know them in Montreal. We know them as Officers who give themselves to their work. We respect them for the accuracy of their lives, and they can depend upon

Brigadier Pinchen, who "epresented the immigration Staff, said, in part: "There is a great opportunity around this district for real carnest soul-saving work, and I need not tell Major and Mrs. Macdonald about the splendid workers they have come amongst, but I assure them that as far as members of the Immigration Department are concerned, they are thrife welcome. Staff-Captain Hollande was in happy vein, and thoroughly enjoyed the privilege of representing the Social

"Eleven years ago," she said, "I held

Members of the Social Work in Montreal will stand by them and will help them to roll the Old Charlot along." Staff-Captain Owen, who represented the Division said:

"I bespeak for Major and Mrs. Mac-donald, as leaders of this Division, vic-tory after victory, and I believe that through their coming amongst us Mon-treal will be a better Division, Hell will be poorer and Heaven will be richer!"

be poorer and Heaven will be richer!"

Mys. Major Macdonald was the next speaker. Said she:

"I am very glad I shall not be able to hear what is said at my funeral, it is bud enough to have to listen to speeched at a welcoming meeting and farewell, and I do feel we have got our work cut out to live up to all that has been said.

I do led we have got our work cut out to live up to all that has been said.

"In The Army we have chances of helping and blossing immercable. It is wenderful and valuable beyond any words of mine, and I do hope the Lord will help us while here this time working in a little different sphere and yet the result for which we work is the very same. I trust the Lord will make us a blossing to everybody with whom we come in touch. We cannot make everyone right all at once, but we can begin with ourselves, and by leceping our hearts and lives right, we shall help others and that will help bring the world to the place where it will be right; bring it to the feet of Jesus. I pray that we may be helped to remember that it is our privilege to help to make men holy. We shall live that the beauty of Jesus may be seen in our lives."

Major Macdouald, who was received

Major Macdouald, who was received with fine cordiality, said in the course of his address: "Staff-Captain Owen said something of his address:

"Staff-Captain Owen said something about lighting battles. You know that battles cannot be fought and won without secrice and devotion and without sentence and devotion and without concentration. Comrades, there never was a battle that required so much concentration as the battle we are lighting. The battle in which we are elighting. The battle in which we are elighting. The battle in which we are elighting who, if not saved, will suffer in eternity. The only remedy is to be fone there must be devotion and soft-sacrifice and the giving up of body and soul and spirit on our part, for the work in hand. "Some forty years ago, in the town of Stellarton, on a Saturday night, I started out for another night of sin, but instead I wandered into The Salvation Army and God convicted and converted meeting. Ever since then I have desired to be like Jesus. Is that your mubition? If you are born again it is. Are you a sanctified Salvationist? Are you consecrated? Are you on the Atlar, hody, soul and spirit? If not, then think about is, and get where God wants you to he!

Eric, youngest of the party wisely chose to go with Farley, who had been in Baltimore previously. Saying good-bye to their comrades, Eric and his three companions set out across several vacunt lots and finally came to a sailors' boarding house where

The following two weeks were among the happiert Eric had enjoyed up to that time. He learned a great up to that time. He learned a great deal abact the country, the people and customs and made up his mind to five here if he found a way of making a livelihood. Unfortunately, work was scarce and when his money ran low he was forced to take a job on a West Indian steamer, the "Ametha." Eric got on the boat only a few minutes before she sailed and he was sick at heart when he discovered that he was the only white man is a mixed crow. The deck men were all West Indian

As Eric watched the shore lights growing dimmer and diamer it seemed to him as if he were oding carried into a new world.

CHAPTER MN.

Etic's trip to the West Indies, with stops at Januaica and other smaller islands, was decidedly anpleasant. He was quartered with eight negro sailors, none of whom knew the value of soap and water, a regular change of cluthes or fresh air. There were only two small port-holasin the forecastle, but these were clamped shut by the crew, who were

While cruising about the West In-While cruising about the West Indies, stops were made at the shore villages for benams and cocoanuts, and Eric got his first glimpse of the jungles and the tricky monkeys who hung by their tails in the most precarious places. It was an entirely new sight to the Norse boy, and partly repaid for the discomfort of life aboard ship.

Two months were consumed in the trip. On returning to Baltimore, Eric Dead and wounded were brought aboard the medical ship, and Eric, while assigned to work in the store-room, was addiged to take his regular turn in the ward and operating room. The boy had nover seen such misery before, and his heart and mind were touched to the quick. War had taken on a new significance, it lost its glory and grandeur, and became, suidedly, a loathsome and hileous thing. That impression never left him.

The "Saulus" returned to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and Eric received his discharge. Lured by the tales of life in the Central States, he immediately went out to Eric, Pa., and shiped for a trip on the Great Lakes.

During the next few months Eric worked as an able seaman on several Something in what they said and did touched his heart, and he gave eager attention to their message and followed the march to the hall. Then was only a small crowd indoors, and befrie, to avoid attention, took a seat behind several loungers in the back.

His Heart Touched

The meeting went on in usual Army fashion, a song and several testimonies leading up to the message. Staff-Gaptain Augusta Sambblad took the lesson that night, and her tak, based on the text. He had found the Saviour.

Several years have passed since then, but Eric has remained true. He was en-rolled as a Soldier of The Army a short time after his conversion, and was known to his mates from then on, and even after his enlishment in the United States Navy, as a "Salvation saither."

Upon his discharge he applied for Officership, and was accepted. After a session in the Training Gardsion in the Training Gari-com he was assigned to the Men's Social Service De-partment, and to-day poul find him looking after the Traveller's Bureau, a de-partment of Salvation Army service that has to do with meeting immigrants from incoming ships and looking after those detained on Ellis Island.
